

Testamentary Trusts In Wills

What is a testamentary trust?

A testamentary trust is simply, a trust established in a Will. Most trusts are discretionary trusts due to their tax and asset protection advantages and this is the type we use in our Wills.

Discretionary trusts are quite common in Australia. They can also be established outside of a Will and you may know them by their familiar name of 'Family Trusts'. There are over 400,000 active discretionary trusts in Australia.

When the discretionary trust is placed in a Will,

it is called a Testamentary Discretionary Trust (TDT). TDTs have even more advantages than Family trusts.

You can write a Will to include a TDT so that your beneficiary has the option to hold some or all of their inheritance in the TDT, rather than outright. The TDT cannot be used before the Willmaker dies, it only is available for use by the beneficiary once the beneficiary is entitled to their inheritance. The important thing to note is that if you do not include one in your Will, the beneficiary will not have the benefit of one.

The main features of the TDT include:

- + the TDT can buy, sell and deal with assets similar to a natural person;
- + a trustee controls the TDT. The trustee determines what the TDT will sell or invest in. They also decide who will receive the income earned by the TDT, or the capital of the TDT from the pool of beneficiaries named in the TDT. You can have more than one trustee, and a trustee can be a beneficiary;
- + the TDT has a pool of beneficiaries (normally family members and their entities) who the trustee can choose from (in the trustee's discretion) to give income or capital to. The trustee can give whatever amount it decides, to one or more of the beneficiaries (equally or unequally, or nothing at all);

- + the TDT starts on the death of the Willmaker. The maximum life of the TDT allowable is 80 years (with the exception of South Australia), from its commencement. The trustee is normally given the power under the TDT to wind it up earlier if they wish.

The TDT is a very flexible entity, allowing the trustee plenty of freedom to deal with the trust fund for the benefit of the beneficiaries. Take a look at the diagrams at the end of this Fact Sheet to get an idea of how the trust is structured.

As a rule of thumb, if you are gifting more than $300,000 to a beneficiary, then you should seriously consider giving the beneficiary the option of taking their gift in a TDT. You may still wish to consider a TDT for a lesser amount, if the beneficiary is 'vulnerable' (see our discussion below).

Tax Advantages of the TDT

The TDT allows the trustee to assign the income earned in the trust to different beneficiaries in the trust to take advantage of their different tax rates. This effectively allows you to income split with various beneficiaries of the trust.

Minors (e.g. children under 18) have even greater tax benefits. They are taxed at adult rates and when combined with the low and middle income tax offsets, their effective tax free threshold is $23,226 for the 2020/21 financial year. The concession extends to all minors who are in the pool of beneficiaries in the TDT such as children, grandchildren and nieces and nephews, as you specify).

This is significantly more than the tax free threshold for children in the Family trust, which is currently $416 per minor.

Our examples of Michael and Mandy at the end of this Fact Sheet clearly show the tax savings they would enjoy if they were left their inheritance in a TDT by the Willmaker, rather than receive their inheritance outright.

The table below summarises the tax savings in each scenario:

Example	Tax Saving
Example 1: Mandy doesn't work, has 2 children	$2,237 per year
Example 2: Mandy has a part time job, and 2 children	$9,900 per year
Example 3: Michael has a full time job, and 2 children	$12,125 per year
Example 4: Michael has a full time job and no children	$4,025 per year

Other Advantages of using TDTs in your Will

TDTs have the following additional benefits:

- + TDTs significantly reduce the risk of the inheritance you give to a beneficiary being 'lost' to third parties or your in-laws, particularly on the death of the beneficiary. For example if you leave an inheritance to your adult child in a TDT, then on that child's death the inheritance remains in the TDT for that child's children (your grandchildren) and will not pass under your child's Will to their spouse;
- + Protection of the inheritance from the beneficiary's creditors and some protection against the beneficiary's spouse in a marital breakdown;
- + Protection of the inheritance where the beneficiary is 'vulnerable' (for instance, has a disability, addiction or is a spendthrift, bankrupt or a 'financially at risk' person). See our Fact Sheet on Protective Trusts in Wills for more information.

What are the disadvantages of a TDT?

- + Once the TDT comes into existence (that is, on the Willmaker's death), the TDT needs a tax file number and will need to lodge a tax return each year on any income earned. This is an ongoing maintenance cost. Because the tax return will be similar to that of a family trust, most accountants are well acquainted with this process and do not see it as complex. There are no government fees or audit requirements;
- + The cost of establishing the TDT in the Will is paid for now by the Willmaker, even though the benefits of the TDT will be enjoyed by the beneficiaries.

There is very little choice here, as the ability for the beneficiaries to obtain a TDT like this is not possible in any other way. There is a limited ability to obtain a post death trust, but it is very restrictive, and expensive to establish post death.

In Summary

The inheritance you leave can be significantly enhanced by placing it in a TDT which offers a tax effective environment for it to grow. In addition, the inheritance receives added protection from the ravages of imprudent beneficiaries, or unscrupulous third parties.

The ways to obtain this valuable vehicle are very limited. The TDT must be created in your Will. It is a small window of opportunity, but the benefits can last for years.

Testamentary Discretionary Trust

Example 1: Mandy + 2 kids

Mandy – no other income

Trust receives $500,000 inheritance, which is invested (property, shares, term deposit, etc)

Income earned each year by inheritance: $35,000

Mandy assigns the income: Mandy $23,226, Child No. 1 $5,887, Child No. 2 $5,887 → Tax on income: $NIL

Mandy's tax if inheritance in her own hands: $2,237 per year

Saving: $2,237 per year*

*(2020/21 tax rates used using Federal Budget Oct 2020 tax rates, including tax offsets. Excludes Medicare levy.)

Testamentary Discretionary Trust

Example 2: Mandy + 2 kids

Mandy – has part time job: $35,000 p/a

Trust receives $500,000 inheritance, which is invested (property, shares, term deposit, etc)

Income earned each year by inheritance: $35,000

Mandy assigns the income: $17,500 to Child No. 1 + $17,500 to Child No. 2 → Tax on income: $NIL

Mandy's personal tax: $2,237

Mandy's tax if inheritance in her own hands: $12,137 (based on income of $35,000 + $35,000 = $70,000).

Tax Saving $9,900 per yr*

*(2020/21 tax rates used using Federal Budget Oct 2020 tax rates, including tax offsets. Excludes Medicare levy.)

Testamentary Discretionary Trust

Example 3: Michael + 2 kids

Michael has a full-time job at $80,000 p/a

Trust receives $500,000 inheritance, which is invested (property, shares, term deposit, etc)

Income earned each year by inheritance: $35,000

Michael assigns the income: $17,500 to Child No.1, $17,500 to Child No.2 → Tax on income: $NIL

Michael's personal tax: $15,387

Tax to Michael if he received the inheritance outright = $27,512 (being tax on income of $80,000 + $35,000 = $115,000)

Tax Saving $12,125 per yr*

*(2020/21 tax rates used using Federal Budget Oct 2020 tax rates, including tax offsets. Excludes Medicare levy.)

Testamentary Discretionary Trust

Example 4: Michael, but no children yet

Michael has a wife who earns $30,000 p/a | Michael earns $90,000 p/a

Trust receives $500,000 inheritance, which is invested (property, shares, term deposit, etc)

Income earned each year by inheritance: $35,000.

If Michael has no TDT the inheritance income of $35,000 will be taxed at his marginal rate. His tax on income of $90K + $35K would be $31,287. His wife's tax would be $1,287. TOTAL TAX: $32,574.

If Michael has a TDT he could decide to distribute $15,000 of inheritance income to his wife and $20,000 to a shelf company he establishes as a beneficiary. His tax would be $18,637. His wife's tax would be $3,912. His shelf company's tax would be $6,000. TOTAL TAX: $28,549.

Tax Saving $4,025 per yr*

*(2020/21 tax rates used using Federal Budget Oct 2020 tax rates, including tax offsets. Excludes Medicare levy.)
